

Non-standard outputs: Their merits, the REF and the Funders
DMU 13 March 2024

Individual and collaborative
experimental sound-based composition and sampling

Leigh Landy

Non-standard outputs: Their merits, the REF and the Funders
DMU 13 March 2024

Individual and collaborative experimental sound-based composition and sampling

Dissecting the title of today's event in terms of this presentation

- Non-standard outputs (practice-based research in the arts within Higher Education, 'the thinking artist' – NB: I am not speaking about industry/science)
- Their merits (art as research, art as cultural and societal driver)
- The REF (research imperative)
- & External funders (e.g., ACE vs. AHRC)

Non-standard outputs: Their merits, the REF and the Funders
DMU 13 March 2024

Individual and collaborative
experimental sound-based composition and sampling

Dissecting my chosen title for this short presentation

- Individual and collaborative ...
- Experimental sound-based composition
- & Sampling (and its associated legality issues; art challenging society)

Non-standard outputs: Their merits, the REF and the Funders

DMU 13 March 2024

Individual and collaborative experimental sound-based composition and sampling

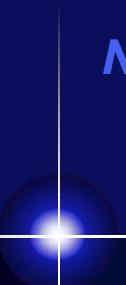

Two ultra-brief examples

- What I call music-based music, the {Instrument/Country} Old / New Series

- Using any sounds, in this case using BBC broadcasts, the Radio Series

Non-standard outputs: Their merits, the REF and the Funders
DMU 13 March 2024

Individual and collaborative experimental sound-based composition and sampling

A few key points to keep in mind:

- Research imperative and its relationship with REF criteria (the REF criteria: originality, significance, rigour)
- Documentation (do not underestimate its importance)
- Dealing with collaboration in terms of the REF (defining roles wherever possible)
- A series as a multiple-output, perhaps double-weighted submission
- Impact of practice-based research (*on one of our Impact Case Studies in the last REF which received a 4**)
- + A final word